DOING.

The telegraph brings the following contradictory news respecting the proposed duel between Messrs. Brooks and Burlingame:

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Mr. Burlingame's case excites intense interest. His wife is his secret and avowed to his name. There is no evidence up to this time (3:30 P. M.) of any hostile meeting between Messrs. Burlingame and Brooks.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Mr. Pringle, of New York, yesterday, made an affidavit that he had reason to believe that a challenge to fight a duel had been passed between Brooks and Burlingame, and that they were making preparations to fight, in violation of the peace of the District, and the Act of Congress. He therefore prayed that the parties be arrested and put under bonds. Brooks was arrested this morning and led in $2000 bail to keep the peace.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—It is generally understood that he has been no doubt between Burlingame and Brooks; but that the matter has been amicably arranged by friends, and that the correspondences will appear to-morrow.

We shall not believe till we have better evidence, that Mr. Burlingame has consented, or intimated a willingness to fight a duel with the ruinous Brooks, for the following reasons:

1st. It would be putting himself on a par with an avowed assassin.

2d. It would be an attempt to settle the question of right and wrong by the chance of a pistol shot.

3d. It would be a violation of the law of Congress, and against the laws of his own State.

4th. It would be a violation of the law of God.

5th. It would be a mark of cowardice. The brave man would say—I will not trample on the laws of God and man, and adopt the code of assassins, but if assailed for doing my duty, I will defend myself to the last.

The Pacific Standard.

The following news in relation to the prospects of the Rock is reported at Washington as the 18th inst.

The special Pacific Railroad Committee have agreed upon a bill, eleven members concurring—and Gen. Denver, the Chairman, will report it on Monday, if he gets the floor. Three bonds are provided for—one to be built north of the forty-first degree of north latitude, by the Northern Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, of which Alexander Ramsey is President—no between the thirty-eighth and forty-fourth parallels, to be constructed by an association of all the roads now chartered and running westward through Iowa and Missouri, the junction to be formed near Fort Kearney, and the single trunk to run to the navigable waters of the Pacific, in California—and the Southern road is awarded to the Southern Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, of which T. Butler King is President, a new company, associated with the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company of California, the Texas Western Railroad Company and the Vicksburg and Shreveport Company.

This line runs from the Mississippi, a few miles south of the thirty-eighth degree, and runs to San Francisco with a branch to San Diego, and with a grant of forty sections of land to the side west of Texas to the California line and then ten sections per mile to San Francisco. No grant is made for that portion of the road east of the western boundary of Texas. The Northern road receives fifty sections from point to point, seventeen hundred miles. The middle road receives thirty sections until it reaches California, then ten sections to its western terminus. The provisions for mail pay are liberal. Telegraph lines are provided for on each road. The report of the Committee will not be long but clear and satisfactory. The bill will be put through without delay.

Democratic Consistency.

The Charleston Mercury takes the Democratic members of the Senate to task for their abandonment of Democratic principles in voting for the river and Harbor bills recently passed in spite of the President's veto. The Mercury is Democratic sheet of undoubted orthodoxy. It says:

To make the contrast between the Democratic party and its opponents as marked as possible, and to hold up its principles in the midst of temptation and corruption, was the surest way of commanding the esteem and confidence of the whole country. And though in a minority in the House, the party had nothing to fear so long as a majority in the Senate and the President stood by. But we have seen how, in the midst of such a contest, and with such odds in its favor, the Democratic party betrayed its principles and abandoned its chosen leader. How justly, from the utterance of plaudits at Cincinnati, a just Internal Improvement and the nomination of a champion to sustain them, it has already falsified them.

Senator Douglas after voting for the passage of the River and Harbor Bills, over the President's Veto, said:

I trust I shall be indulged in making one remark. I have voted for these bills because I believe they are the most favorable objects for appropriating money from the Treasury of any that could be selected; but I wish to declare emphatically that, in regard to this whole system of appropriations from the Treasury, it has proved a system of total failure, and it is a system of extravagance. The true interest of the navigation interest requires a different system. I only vote for this until a new system can be adopted.

The Union copies the Richmond Enquirer's thirteen reasons for claiming Southern support for Mr. Buchanan, and adds:

"This rapid retrospect discloses a consistency and efficiency of SERVICE TO THE SOUTH, which history can claim for no other living man. Mr. Buchanan is not only vindicated from calumny, he is not simply shown to be exempt from just reproach and worthy of confidence, he is promoted to his proper position."

IN ADVANCE OF ANY AND EVERY TESMAN OF THE NORTH IN THE CONFIDENCE AND AFFECTIONS OF THE PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH."

That is excellently all in his devotion to Slavery.

Brooks' SPEECH.—A Washington letter writer says:

"Brooks' speech after his condemnation was one of the most damning thus far of his northern supporters that could have been inflicted. His eloquence on that noble specimen of a man, John Scott Harrison, of Ohio, has furnished this week's most anti-Nebraska member with permanent walking papers from public life. It was a signal instance of unmitigated cruelty—large quantities of Brooks' speech will probably be circulated among the abiding constituents of the northern men who voted against his expulsion."

THE TORPEDO CASE.—W. Arrison was convicted at Washington on the 21st inst., at Cincinnati on the third trial, for causing the death of Mr. Allison, by an internal machine, some two years since. Great dissatisfaction is expressed at the verdict. The sentence will be deferred, and he will be on trial for the murder of Mr. Allison, for which an application has been made.

Congressional.

The Sentinel thinks Billinghurst will be re-convicted and hanged:

In this, the First District, we have, as yet, heard of but one name in connection with the administration; that of Judge Potter, of Walworth County, a true and resolute man, who will do credit to the State and prove faithful under all possible circumstances, to the cause of Freedom. It is desirable, nevertheless, that he stand in this and the Third Districts, our Congressional Conventions should be called early, our candidates formally placed in the field, and our forces everywhere thoroughly organized and mustered for the contest. In this State and in every District of the State, Victory is certain, if we but make the effort which the magnitude of the interest still demands of every man who loves Liberty and is faithful to the Constitution and the Union.

We believe in the policy of releasing those who are true to their constituents, unless there is some good reason for release. Mr. Billinghurst has voted right, and so far as we know, he has satisfied his constituents. Judge Potter, if we can learn, will be the spontaneous choice of this District. With union and effort we can elect him triumphant.

Bucine College Commencement.

The fourth Annual Commencement of Bucine College will be held in St. Luke's Church, in the city of Racine, on Thursday, the 24th inst. The exercises, commencing at 3 o'clock P. M., will be as follows:

CONNECTICUT.—A Mass State Convention of the people opposed to Buchanan and Slavery is called to meet at Hartford, Aug. 6th, to form an action ticket. Connecticut is all right.

BIRKINBANK'S BURNS.—Three Lager Beer Distilleries in 45th st., between 1st and 2nd avenues in New York were destroyed by fire on the afternoon of the 21st inst.

The buildings were owned by Messrs. Miller, Rupert & James. Rupert's loss is between $50,000 and $60,000—Miller's and Clement's, $10,000. Seven or eight dwelling houses were also burned. Loss about $11,000. Rupert had about $30,000 worth of lager beer stored in his vaults.

DEMOCRATIC CONSISTENCY.

The Charleston Mercury takes the Democratic members of the Senate to task for their abandonment of Democratic principles in voting for the river and Harbor bills recently passed in spite of the President's veto. The Mercury is Democratic sheet of undoubted orthodoxy. It says:

To make the contrast between the Democratic party and its opponents as marked as possible, and to hold up its principles in the midst of temptation and corruption, was the surest way of commanding the esteem and confidence of the whole country. How justly, from the utterance of plaudits at Cincinnati, a just Internal Improvement and the nomination of a champion to sustain them, it has already falsified them.

A Story of Misplaced Love—How Certain Ladies were Swindled by a Scamp.

The Cincinnati Daily Times has the following story:

Some time since, Lieutenant Hurst of the city Police, and other officers, who had been for some time engaged in ferreting out the perpetrators of a forgery, arrested a young man, who, it is evident, was the principal in the transaction. After his arrest, the officers, as is their custom, took possession of his baggage, which they searched for evidence of his character and of the crime. Among other documents, they found a bundle of letters from numerous ladies, living in different localities, and with whom it appears the fellow has been playing the part of the gay deceiver.

It seems that whenever he could make an impression upon the heart of a good-looking woman, he would do so, and, though a married man, was at all times ready to make an engagement, if he could make money by the operation. The officer has ascertained that, in one instance, he borrowed a horse and sum of money from his fiancée, and then disappeared; and it would appear from the letters, that in some localities he was engaged to marry more than one of his lady acquaintances. One who signs herself "Grace," writes from the northern part of the state.

She complains of his attentions to another, but forgives him, and closes her letter with a fervent reiteration of love.

There is a letter from another, though to be an orphan girl. She appeals most tenderly to his manliness, and as she knows he is the only person upon whom she can rely for protection, begs him not to desert her. She, too, complains of his attention to another.

In the budget are several from one lady, all long and exceedingly well written. She, like all the rest, is much attached to the gay deceiver, and elides him frequently for his negroes to promise solemnly made. In one of the letters she speaks as follows:

"I have, for one year, been living in suspense, in expectation of, I hardly know what. I have sacrificed situations, or rather refused such, where I might be enjoying a little of the comforts of life. O, God! dead mercifully with my aching heart. You possess a heart. I beg of you, dead justly with me, and do not say you will do a thing and then not do it. I beseech you, do not set any more times to come and let me do it. You told me when we separated you would be home by Christmas, and then I wrote you would be here by the 10th of this month. I can bear this no longer. You are breaking my heart, not in this alone, but in other business. Are you getting a divorce? Speak truthfully. Remember, one day you must give an account for the deeds done in the body. You say you love me, and there have been times when I believed you. Let me repeat to you flying rumors. Your friend Mrs. T. — has been here on a visit from L. — She came to advise with her father-in-law in regard to getting a divorce. He counseled and she then said she was engaged to another, giving your name and your description. Mr. T. recognized you, and told her of your professions to me. She left the next day rather disconcerted. Now, what does this mean? I think it accounts for your neglecting me for months. Then, Miss J. C. has been telling a delicious yarn concerning your trying to marry her. She tells your conversation, and it is just as you have talked to me."

These are specimens of the entire correspondence.

The Great Eastern.

A huge black structure, "very like a whale," has been slowly rising on the bank of the Thames, near London, for several months, which is destined at no distant day to astonish the world. It is the new steamship of Mr. Brunel, built entirely of iron plates, and intended to be the biggest conveyance that ever floated. She is about twice the size of Noah's Ark, according to the dimensions laid down in Genesis. The passenger who sets out to walk from her bow to her stern and back again will have a journey of just quarter of a mile. She is divided by tight bulkheads into twenty-one compartments, each of them so large that a three-story house were dropped in, there might be some trouble in finding it again. Her paddle-wheels are larger round than the ring of Dan Rice's Circus. Four steam engines are to drive them, and six more are to turn a monstrous screw. Besides her ten engines, she is to carry seven masts, and spread more canvas than all the factories in Colonia could turn out in a week. As she is to carry 4,000 passengers, she could take the entire population of that enterprising village on board, that is to say, could get into the hull.

She lies broadside to the stream, while she is building, and is to be launched sideways, her immense size rendering it inconvenient to turn her up lengthwise in the ordinary fashion.

So vast an apparatus, of course, is too massive for men to handle by ordinary means. Mechanical power is requisite. Her steam engines are to weigh the anchor, work the pumps, and raise the sails. A telegraph wire runs from the Captain's room to the engineer, and another to the helm-man. The cabins and state rooms are to be lighted with gas made on board. But at the masthead she is to carry an Electric Light, visible fifteen miles, and casting a moonlight radiance on the sea for half a mile around. For lifeboats she is to carry a crew of screw steamboats, ninety feet long, and a small fleet of yachts and jolly boats. She is expected to go round the world without being obliged to stop once for coal. She is intended for the Pacific trade.

Rising Sun.—The Louisville Journal says:

"The Argus figures up from $8,000 to $12,000 majority for Buchanan in this State.

It also says that the contributions for the Kenosha Aid Fund are for Daniels and Booth.

Will the Argus state its authority for believing that a dollar of these funds ever passed through the hands of the old customs?—

He gave permission a short time since to any of his wives, if dissatisfied with the confinement of the Palace, to have liberty to leave and get married. Twelve of his numerous spouses were widowed, and availed themselves of the permission, and retired from the Palace.

The New York papers are full of the details of the wholesale slaughter on the North-Western Pennsylvania Railroad, and insist on stringent regulations in future, to prevent such murders. All Railroad Companies should be compelled to put up telegraph lines and run by their directions. We hope to see this provision incorporated into every new charter for a rail road in this State.

The Nashville Banner says:

"In our thirty years editorial experience, we can truthfully say we never knew the leaders and organs of any party in as horrible a fix as are the leaders and organs of the Democratic party in Tennessee, at this present writing. Striking, fast sinking, under the unbearable weight of Mr. Buchanan, the way they squat, squirm and wriggle and twist, and catch at straws is a cartoon.

The St. Paul Deutsche Zeitung, the only German paper published in Minnesota Territory, comes out for Fremont and Dayton. The editor says he has for six years labored for the Democratic party, in spite of its corruptions, in the hope that some day it would work a reformation.

The Louisville Journal says:

"Four times for Vice Presidency from Kentucky and each time with the view of carrying the State for their ticket. In 1836 they nominated Richard M. Johnson to carry Kentucky and they failed. In 1840 they nominated the Tenant Kilmer, and failed not only in Kentucky, but almost everywhere else. In 1848, when they nominated General Wm. O. Butler, and failed again to carry Kentucky or to elect their candidate. In 1856 they have nominated John C. Breckinridge."

LOCAL MATTERS, &c.

Advertisements for the Daily Free Democrat, should, in order to insure them in time, be sent in by 10 o'clock A. M.

POLICE COURT, July 23.

Edward Cogrove, disorderly, fined $3; W. Collins, intoxicated, fined $1; M. S. Schleicher, intoxicated and disorderly, sent to jail for 10 days in default of a fine of $5; warrant issued against D. Haffner, for disorderly conduct; on complaint of C. W. Schwartzberg, a warrant was issued against John Hentzel, Mary Hentzel and James Hentzel (alias), for assault and battery; Edward Katunich, assault with intent to kill J. H. Ryan—case continued till July 24th, and defendant gave bail for his appearance in the sum of $1,000.

MAN'S HEAD FOUND IN THE RIVER.—The head of a man, which had been cut from the body, was found yesterday afternoon, near Barber's Ship Yard, by a boy who was going up the river in a boat.

On Friday last, two pairs of overalls, a red cotton home-knitted and a linen shirt, (German lining) with the letters G. B. marked on the breast, were found secreted under a pile of lumber, near Capt. Barber's Ship Yard. There was a good deal of blood on the front of the shirt.

It is thought, the man to whom the clothes belonged may have been murdered, and that the head found was a part of his remains.

COMPLIMENTARY.—The employees of the M. & W. R. R., yesterday presented to D. C. Freeman, Esq., the agent of that road, as a token of their appreciation, a massive gold chain and seal, containing the following inscription:

Presented to
D. C. FREEMAN,

BY THE EMPLOYEES OF THE M. & W. R. R.,
July, 1856.

The chain and seal were purchased at the jewelry establishment of Loomis & Horst, corner of East Water and Wisconsin Streets.

FUNERAL OF GILBERT M. SMITH.—The funeral of Gilbert M. Smith took place yesterday afternoon. The services were performed at his residence by Rev. Mr. Buchanan, and his remains were followed to the grave by the Light Guards, of which he was a member, and a long procession of mourning relatives and sympathizing friends. At the close of the ceremonies at the grave, the escort fired three volleys as the soldiers' last tribute to the memory of a departed comrade.

THREATENING SUICIDE.—Police Officer Wight and Koester arrested a young man named Davies last night, for threatening to put an end to his own existence. He had purchased some morphine and threatened to take it, stating that he was tired of life, as everybody was against him. A quantity of poison was found upon him. On his promise not to attempt it again he was liberated, and a policeman sent to see him home.

NEW CARRIAGE FACTORY.—We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Mather & Thorne, proprietors of the Eagle Carriage Factory. They are gentlemen of enterprise from the east, who have come here to establish a business, by making the very best carriages and wagons at reasonable prices. We advise all who want to buy new wagons or carriages, or to have old ones made to look as good as new, to give them a call, on the corner of West Water and Cedar Streets, in the Fourth Ward.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The second monthly exhibition of this Society takes place, at Young's Hall, to-morrow afternoon and evening. We have before spoken of the benefit and honor which this Society confers upon this community, and we trust our citizens will remember to be present.

We are indebted to Thos. Boyle, of the News Depot, for New York papers of Monday morning, arrived early this morning—through two days. We expect, at no distant day to get New York papers through in 24 hours.

NEW WHEAT IN MARKET.—Moses Atwood & McVan of Oconomowoc, exhibited new wheat in this market yesterday. It is the first offered here this season, and was a fine sample of white winter wheat.
